From Teacher Cory Crandall

“I had the privilege of working with our summer school students in the reading program and art program. I enjoy seeing kids involved in art, any of the arts. Art is an area where all students are successful no matter their background or abilities.”

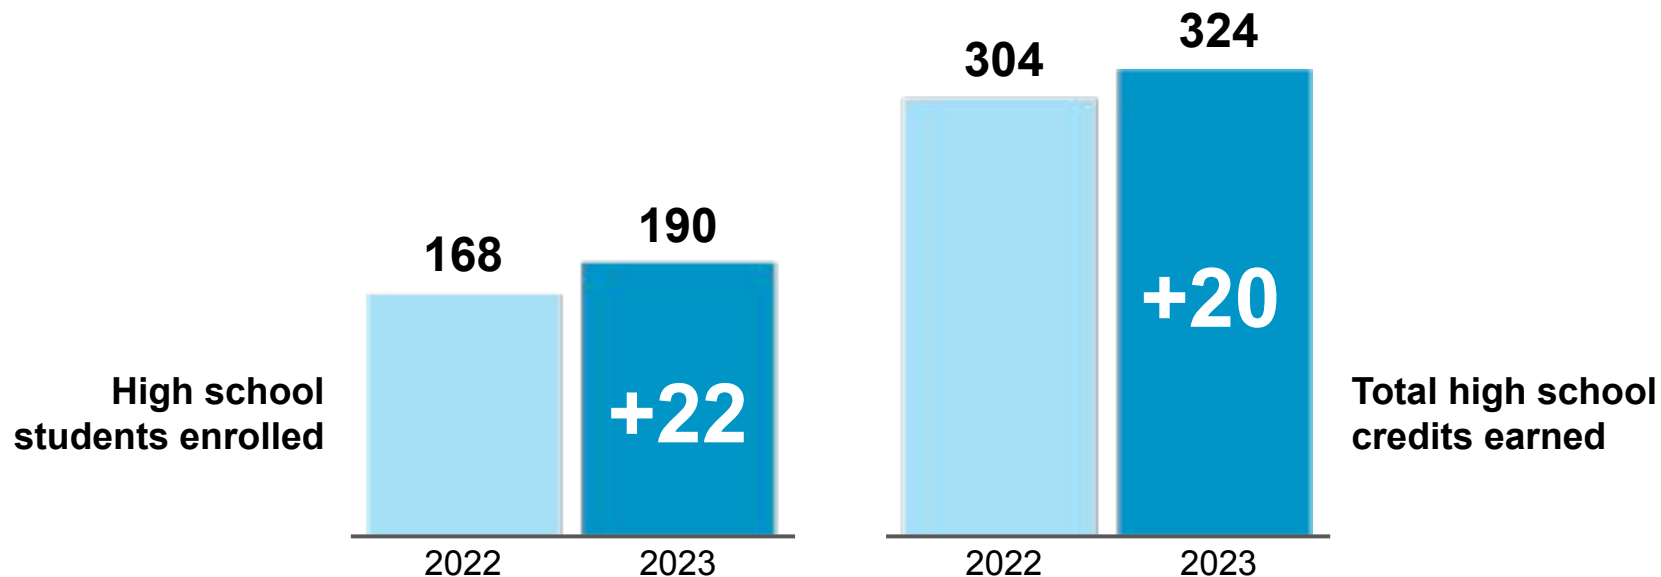

“Although I work hard at building students’ self esteem as readers, it is not always easy to break barriers they’ve built up. In creating art, students immediately see results and feel a sense of accomplishment.”

“Boosting their confidence with art in the afternoon allowed students to leave each day on a positive note. Including art in the summer school program was a tremendous benefit to our students.”
